

Dear Colleague,

I thought you might be interested to know that 700+ defence and intelligence professionals will be attending the Defence Geospatial Intelligence (DGI) 2015 meeting, taking place in London, 19-21 January. They will be learning from the best in the community, meeting cutting edge solution providers, networking with their peers and benchmarking against the world's most progressive defence organisations.

The speaker line-up really reads like the who's who of the community. This is your annual opportunity to hear and learn from the thought-leaders in the community on their needs and requirements:

Some of the leading experts who are already confirmed to participate include:

- Air Chief Marshal Sir Stuart Peach, Vice Chief of Defence Staff, UK MoD
- Gil Klinger, Deputy Assistant Secretary of Defense for Space and Intelligence within the Undersecretary of Defense for Acquisition, Technology, and Logistics, US DoD
- Dan Visone, Director of the Geospatial Acquisition Support Directorate US Army Geospatial Center, US Army
- Vice Admiral (ret'd) Robert Murrett, Deputy Director, Institute for National Security and Counterterrorism (INSCT) Professor, Public Administration and International Affairs Maxwell School of Citizenship and Public Affairs, Syracuse University
- Phillip Chudoba, Assistant Director of Intelligence, HQ Marine Corps, US Marine Corps
- John Kedar, Director, Strategic Business Development, Ordnance Survey
- Captain David Robertson, Chief Hydrographer, UK Royal Navy
- John Knight, Principal, UK Military School of Survey

Request your copy of the conference agenda and find out how DGI can benefit you and your team – email us on dgi@wbr.co.uk

Why attend?

Network – forge new relationships with key decision makers from across the value chain of defence and intelligence

Learn from the best in the community and in the industry – get under the skin of the strategies driving the most advanced defence and government organisations

Benchmark – stay on top of the latest trends in defence, intelligence, geo, data and a cyber security to ensure you keep your strategy on-track

Source suppliers and test new solutions – discover and try out game changing products and make the right investment for your business

I would like to know if you are interested in this year's event since we only have 5 tickets available for members of ISPRS with a with a £200 exclusive discount for serving military professionals and a £300 exclusive discount for solution providers which ends 10th October and I would hate for you to miss out on it. This is the only chance you will have to register at the early bird rate.

Register before 10th of October 2014 to benefit from the exclusive discount for ISPRS contacts

To secure your discounted pass go now to www.dgieurope.com (link to pricing page) and register using discount code ISPRS20

Alternatively, email us on dgi@wbr.co.uk or call us +44 (0) 207 368 9465.

Alternatively, register directly online www.dgieurope.com (link to pricing page) or call my colleague Daniele Moreschi on + 44 (0) 207 368 9451

I look forward to meeting you in January.

Kind regards,

Tom Webber

PS: if you're still unsure if DGI is right for you, why don't you have a look through last year's full attendee list? Download it here (link to <http://wbresearch.ch/dgi2014>)

