Welcome to Beijing

In 60 years of 2008, when the 2008 Summer Olympic trials took place in Beijing as the host city for the 29th ISPRS Congress, we had made a premier – we had made this congress special for the rest of the world, with the full support from the ISPRS community, the Chinese Society for Geomatics, Photogrammetry and Cartography and the State Bureau of Surveying and Mapping. We have done our best to present the ISPRS Congress in the best way, as never in the history. Special Programs, Special and Scientific Congresses.

We have added some new features to the scientific and technical programs. To the traditional plenary sessions, technical sessions, workshop sessions and posters, there are some new special sessions. We have also added some exhibits and special sessions. The new features include a platform to disseminate scientific information, to provide a forum for oral talks to disseminate information and to provide a forum for oral talks to disseminate information and to provide a forum for oral talks to disseminate information.
