

ISPRS geospatial week 2025 - photogrammetry & remote sensing for a better tomorrow, Dubai, UAE, 2025

Reported by Ali Hosingholizade

Ali.hosinzade.khu@gmail.com

First of all, I would like to thank the ISPRS Committee to create suitable conditions for those interested in this important scientific event.

Memorable experience

I gained valuable experience by attending the ISPRS Geospatial Week 2025: GSW conference in Dubai, UAE. Presenting a paper in a professional environment and with a professional organizer boosted my confidence. On the other hand, my motivation to do more research increased significantly and strengthened my determination to solve bigger challenges.

Increasing motivation

During this six-day event, I was able to meet great students and professors whose papers I had only read before. Talking to great professors gave me new ideas for further research. I would like to attend another ISPRS event in 2025 to update my knowledge and information.

Travel grant

The amount of travel grant allocated to me, who came from Iran, was appropriate. This amount fully covered all the expenses of my presence in Dubai for six days. Of course, another very appropriate thing that ISPRS did in coordination with the organizer was waive the registration fee for the conference participants.

Beyond a scientific conference

Secondly, the high quality and diversity of the research of the participating members gave me a new perspective on future research. Another noteworthy point was the presence of Arab women and their very valuable research, which caught my attention. It was very gratifying to visit the space centers and learn about their long-term plans.